

EfS Links, Connections & Further Resources

INTRODUCTION

Networking and developing beneficial partnerships is an essential aspect of Education for Sustainability. The WA Chapter of the Australian Association for Environmental Education (AAEE) specifically aims to help develop relationships and connections across the broad interdisciplinary network of organisations, groups and individuals with a desire to work towards sustainability through providing environmental education.

Creating partnerships for change strengthens ownership of a problem and facilitates ongoing commitment to sustainability amongst diverse stakeholders. Benefits include:

- Opportunities to share workload to achieve common goals
- Access to a greater skills base
- Learning how to work together to build a shared vision of the future by combining knowledge, technology and resources
- Experiencing that one of the best ways to understand different world views is to collaborate with people from different cultures and backgrounds.

(ARIES, 2004-2020)

There are many hard-working environmental educators operating in Western Australia, and many places that Education for Sustainability (EfS) can happen which might not ordinarily be considered. Working with others through cross promotion, project collaboration, or combining resources for a better outcome can bring valuable sustainability outcomes for all.

The list of links provided in this document is designed to help in making connections.

It is updated annually around July.
